Mrs. Edwards Enjoys Birthday

Mrs. Edwards (Ham) Edwards was 94 years old yesterday and in this issue of The Elba Clipper, her niece and nephew have purchased a half a page ad to wish her a happy birthday.

Mrs. Edwards or "Aunt Rasha" has lived her entire life in Elba, Alabama, leaving here only for short visits. The last fifty of those years she has lived in the home she now occupies on West Putnam Street.

Her mind is very alert and her eyes are full of sparkle as she talks of how she enjoys life and the pleasure she still gets from fishing.

"When you are busy with a fishing pole, you don't have time to gossip about your neighbor," says Aunt Rasha.

She can remember very vividly the activities in 1929 when Pea River decided to virtually wipe the City of Elba off the map. She spent two days with most of the rest of the Elba residents in one of the few houses left untouched and then went to Troy with relatives until her home could be restored.

She has had very little experience with hospitals, counting on her fingers of one hand the number of times she has been hospitalized in her life. One of these trips was when she fell and broke a hip, an accident that left her partially confined to a wheel chair. Another was in 1966 several years ago when a doctor put her in the hospital for a thorough check-up. She also had her appendices removed in a hospital several years ago.

Mrs. Edwards appears to be in good health, her attitude is excellent and she is looking forward to many more years of happiness.

The Harold Deal Invitational Golf Tournament was held Aug. 19 at Elba Country Club, and for the sixth year in a row was a big success. Seventy golfers from South Alabama and Florida enjoyed the affair, with Enterprise's delegation of seven players being the largest group from one club.

Bill Flowers of Valparaiso, Florida, used his combination of steadiness and an occasional booming drive from the tee to capture the first place trophy. Flowers, a 1951 graduate of Elba High School and no stranger to hometown people, fired a 27-hole score of 109, one over par for the course. His score tied the tournament record set by Ed Brown of Montgomery in 1969.

Other flight winners were Dan Jackson of Laverne, 2nd Flight; Dr. Jerry Paulk of Elba, 3rd Flight; G.G. Harrell of Enterprise, 4th Flight; and James King of Crestview, 5th Flight. Second place in the Championship Flight went to Guy Bryant III, and Ricky Beck of Geneva won third with 113.

Many of our club members helped in making the tournament as successful as it was, and try the gift rooms by Miss Nancy Brock. Other hostesses assisted in showing the many attractive and useful gifts in the bedrooms and den.

Lovely arrangements of roses were in evidence throughout the gift rooms. Approximately seventy-five guests were registered between the hours of five and six-thirty.

personal thanks go to all of them. We hope that this year's tournament was the start of one of the largest one-day golf attractions in this part of the state.

In other golf news, Mike Griffin of Troy has announced intentions of attending the PGA players' school in West Palm, Florida this fall. Griffin, one of the top amateur players in Alabama for the past few years, has blossomed into a star this summer. The opinion here is that Mike made the right decision, and good luck to him in his new business venture.

On the high school football front, Coach Randy Griffin is drilling the Elba High team in full pads in preparation for the season opener with Brantley on September 1. The first game of the season is always the toughest one as far as physical condition is concerned, but the hot weather we have had recently will be a big help in solving that problem. Daytime practices in the heat will be as strenuous as the September nights, although games put stress on players other than from the physical standpoint. Coach Griffin reports that his team has been fortunate in that there are no serious injuries. However, the next two weeks will also be important to the injury situation.

Elba High School has hired a new basketball coach. Paul Sawyer, a graduate of Frisco City High School and Troy State University, will head the basketball program next year. Coach Sawyer coached at Daphin Street Junior High in Enterprise last season.

THE PACIFIC MORAY OF EBB REACHES A LENGTH OF MORE THAN 80 FEET!!!

PARDON US MORE DRIVE-IN BANKING

There is a very close connection between good pasture management and good fishing. What your livestock do on the land can affect your fishing. When pastures are overgrazed, the grasses are destroyed. The rain water no longer soaks into the ground. Instead, it rushes down the hill sides on over-grazed land, it causes gulches. These gulches do not produce food for the livestock, and the pastures will support fewer livestock. The recent Conservation Needs Inventory for Coffee County shows that over one-half of our pastures are over-grazed and underfertilized.

REV. EDWIN R. SELLS

For all practical purposes this week closes the summer vacation for families with school age children. Teachers have been at work all the week and students register today for classes that begin full-time next Monday. Excitement and anticipation fill the mind of every student from the first grader to the graduating senior of 1973. It is a good time to make some resolutions concerning your behavior and habits for the new school year. Those resolutions might well range from opening your book to opening your mouth. We all have needs that can be met, if we are willing to apply ourselves coupled with all the other helps available to us. Paul, the great apostle of the New Testament, said once to young Timothy, "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." This ought to be a worthy goal for everyone of us.

As we make resolutions concerning our school work, why not let each one of us make some spiritual resolutions? Some that may be worthy for you and me are listed.

I will make this year a time for spiritual growth, by more fully following God's will, by uniting with a church if I am not a member, by definite spiritual changes in my life, and by overcoming real lacks in my character. This I will do by God's help.

I will make this year a time for increasing my knowledge of the Bible and for growing spiritually. God being my helper.

By reading the Bible and praying daily.

By attending Sunday School or Bible Study classes.

By sharing in a prayer group or prayer meeting or a school of prayer.

I will make this year a time for regular, expectant church attendance, by God's help.

By putting attendance ahead of other plans.

By preparing for worship prayerfully before attending.

By coming to worship expecting something to happen.

By seeking to apply the message and my experience to life.

I will make this year a time for increase of fellowship with other Christians.

By seeking to make more real the sense of the world-wide fellowship of the church.

By participating more fully in the total life of my church.

By inviting friends and neighbors to church and greeting them after church.

I will make this year a time for increased service, state-ship, and concern for Christ, His Church, all men.

By taking a responsible position in my Church.

By being a better steward of my time, talents, and my possessions.

By praying for the complete work of the Church and the advancement of the Kingdom.

These things we ought to do as Christians, not because they are easy but because they are right, not in our own strength alone but in His strength and by the Grace and Power of God.

How afraid can we get? Folks run around fretting about lawsuits and liability instead of doing what should be done.

How the heck?

Not everyone is Perry Mason.

Most good attorneys do the right things—advise and serve, and aren't out for the fast buck.

Too much emphasis is placed on the fee of attorneys in these days.

For example:

The school principal, a doctor, policeman and fireman could "only stand and watch" for 70 minutes recently in Gainesville, Fla., while a five year old boy lay in agonies with his finger caught in a playground ride.

They were helpless to do anything, because without permission from Melinda Graham's parents, who couldn't be readily located.

Pinley School principal Matthew Gramore said he had the authority to make the decision to do what seemed best to free the child. "But I would have left myself liable for any consequences."

THE DAILY LEDGER

Fear of getting involved

He said he didn't know what the consequences would be. "Lord only knows—whatever her parents might have done. He said if attempts had been made to free the child and it caused more damage to her, he could have been sued. A call to the state attorney's office while the search for the parents was being conducted verified that fear.

After the parents were found, Melinda was taken to the University of Florida Medical Center. Doctors failed to save the tip of her left index finger, which was severed through the bone at about the base of the fingernail.

Paramore said the girl was playing on a revolving "Jungle Jim" ride and stuck her finger into a hole on the shaft which turns the ride. The finger slipped into another hole inside the shaft and the finger was sliced.

The child suffered a lifetime injury because of fear of a lawsuit.

A VITAL BRIDGE

A CHALLENGE TO EMPLOYERS

More than a half-million servicemen will be returned to civilian life during 1972. These veterans have met the rigorous challenges of military service, often at great risk and personal sacrifice. Many have gained civilian-related termination to succeed. And yet far too many veterans are currently without a job. Prospects for those soon to be released are generally regarded as gloomy.

Throughout America we have heard the cry to bring our boys back home. But to what? Now let's have a similar crusade to provide jobs for them.

President Nixon has established the Jobs for Veterans program and directed the federal government to put its resources to work to stimulate the hiring of veterans. The state employment service and the Veterans Administration offer will supply veterans to fill job openings. Moreover, the current "C.I. Bill" provides allowances for training.

Employers, here is an opportunity to help yourselves, and to make the American Promise a reality to those who have fulfilled one of citizenship's most demanding obligations.

Senator Sparkman Answers Questions

SENATOR JOHN SPARKMAN

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: All I see in the stores these days is foreign made goods—clothing, appliances, shoes, fishing poles—even batteries for my portable radio, which also happens to be "made in Japan." Anything you may do to assist the unemployed of this great nation, by slowing the flood of imports, will surely be appreciated. B. H. Newville, SPARKMAN: As you may know, I have consistently supported measures to protect domestic workers and industry from unfair competition by cheap foreign imports. Several bills are now pending in Congress which would help alleviate this situation, however no final action is scheduled at this time. You may be assured that I shall remember your interest when these measures are reported out of Committee to the Senate floor.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I was real pleased to see that you all had introduced a measure to speed action on a pending Senate bill that would permit acquisition of ships from the reserve fleet for use as artificial reefs in the Gulf. Such a move could prove to be a real bonanza insofar as gulf fishing is concerned. I sincerely appreciate your active interest. J. B. Mobley, SPARKMAN: I was greatly pleased when we were successful in adding this amendment to the Maritime Authorization Bill, and I am hopeful that it will be contained in the final version of this legislation. I am working toward that end.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I have read in the American Legion Magazine for August the arguments in PRO and CON: Should congress adopt a value-added tax? In my opinion the answer to this question is no. M. K. Tuscomba, SPARKMAN: As you know, this proposal was made by the President during his State of the Union Message to Congress. The value-added tax, which is similar to a sales tax, is applied to the difference in the product costs of a product and its sales price. It is applied to both goods and services. How did you vote on this? This is just a proposal and no McGovern Amendment to cut rural or less populated areas. I expect early action on this.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I voted against the so-called "helped dead-end" di-income families. At this Amendment, I want a time I look on a value-added orly of my colleagues I feel tax with disfavor, since such a cut would jeopardize tax the consumer who is already being hit. I am not afraid to ne-otiate I believe that in dealing with our adversaries we must do so from a position of strength, not weakness.

Questions and Answers

With Ferrin Cox

Q. My brother, who had worked all his life in a job covered by the security, died a few months ago. Who gets the lump-sum payment from social security?

A. If your brother was insured under social security and living with his wife at the time of death, his wife gets the payment. If your brother wasn't married, the person responsible for the burial expenses has already been paid; the person who paid them can claim the death payment.

Q. Before her recent death, my wife worked under social security for nearly 11 years. Even though I plan to continue working and supporting our two children, ages 8 and 12, could they get monthly social security benefits on my wife's work record?

A. Yes. The children may be eligible for social security benefits on their mother's record regardless of the surviving father's work situation. You should file an application for the children.

Q. After my husband died, my son received monthly social security benefits until he was 18. His homework stopped, however, when he left school for a year. Now he plans to attend a local college. Can he get social security benefits again?

A. Yes. The child of a retired, deceased or disabled worker can get monthly benefits until 22 as long as he is in full-time attendance at an accredited school and is unmarried. Contact any social security office as soon as possible to have your son's benefits started again.

Q. I receive both a retirement benefit from social security and a pension from the U.S. Army. Does my army pension count as earnings?

A. No. Only wages and self-employment income count as earnings. Other income—such as another pension, dividends, or interest—does not affect your social security benefit payments.

Have a question about social security and its retirement, survivors, disability or Medicare benefits? See your telephone directory for the phone number and address of the nearest social security office.

Stop, Take A Good Look

BILL DICKINSON

In this, a presidential election year, I think it is time we stop and take a look at the "new voter." The recently enacted 26th Amendment enfranchised approximately 11.4 million 18- to 20-year-olds. Including the 13.6 million first time voters between the ages of 21 and 24, 1972's young voters make up 18 percent of the total electorate.

This represents a potential strength greater than many other voting groups in the nation. Senior citizens represent 16 percent, labor, 13 percent, and farmers, 5.5 percent.

Who are the new voters? Where are they? What are their interests and concerns? These are important questions that must be answered.

Contrary to the impression of many, young voters are not all college radicals. In fact, only 35 percent are even in colleges, and 7.7 percent are vocational school students.

In seven states—California, New York, Texas, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Michigan—new voters number more than one million. In all but three states, new voters form a bloc large enough to have reversed the result of the 1968 presidential election.

Survey research has shown that we cannot consider all new voters will think and act alike. They represent all walks of life. Among employed men 18 to 24 years old, about 12 percent are working for local, state or federal governments; 84 percent are in other occupations, industry, and four percent are agricultural workers. Of the young women, 58 percent are in the labor force.

Q. I have a revolving charge account at a local department store. If I don't pay in full within 30 days, I must pay a "finance charge" based on the unpaid balance of my account at the beginning of the month. Is this charge deductible?

A. Yes. Finance charges added to revolving charge accounts solely for the privilege of deferring payment are deductible as interest.

Q. In addition to using my house as a residence, I rent out rooms. My house was damaged in a storm. How do I compute my casualty loss deduction?

A. When property is used partly for personal use and

A. Yes. If you itemize deductions, state transfer taxes on the sale of securities are deductible.

Q. I used my car to drive from neighborhood to neighborhood checking on the work of my church charity drive. Are my automobile expenses deductible?

A. Yes. You may deduct your unreimbursed out-of-pocket automobile expenses directly attributable to services you render to charitable organizations, including churches. If you do not wish to deduct your actual expenses, you may use a standard rate of six cents per mile to determine your contribution. Under this method, parking fees and tolls are deductible in addition to the six cents per mile. Depreciation and insurance are not deductible in either case.

You should keep records in order to substantiate your deduction.

Funds For Tuberculous Control Would Bring Wonderful Results

SENATOR JIM ALLEN

Due to greatly improved methods of treatment tuberculosis is no longer the hopelessly disease it once was, but the more than 35,000 new cases reported in the United States last year mark it still as one of the most serious communicable disease problems facing us. The tragic impact of tuberculosis is felt particularly hard in Alabama where more than 1,000 new active cases will be reported this year alone.

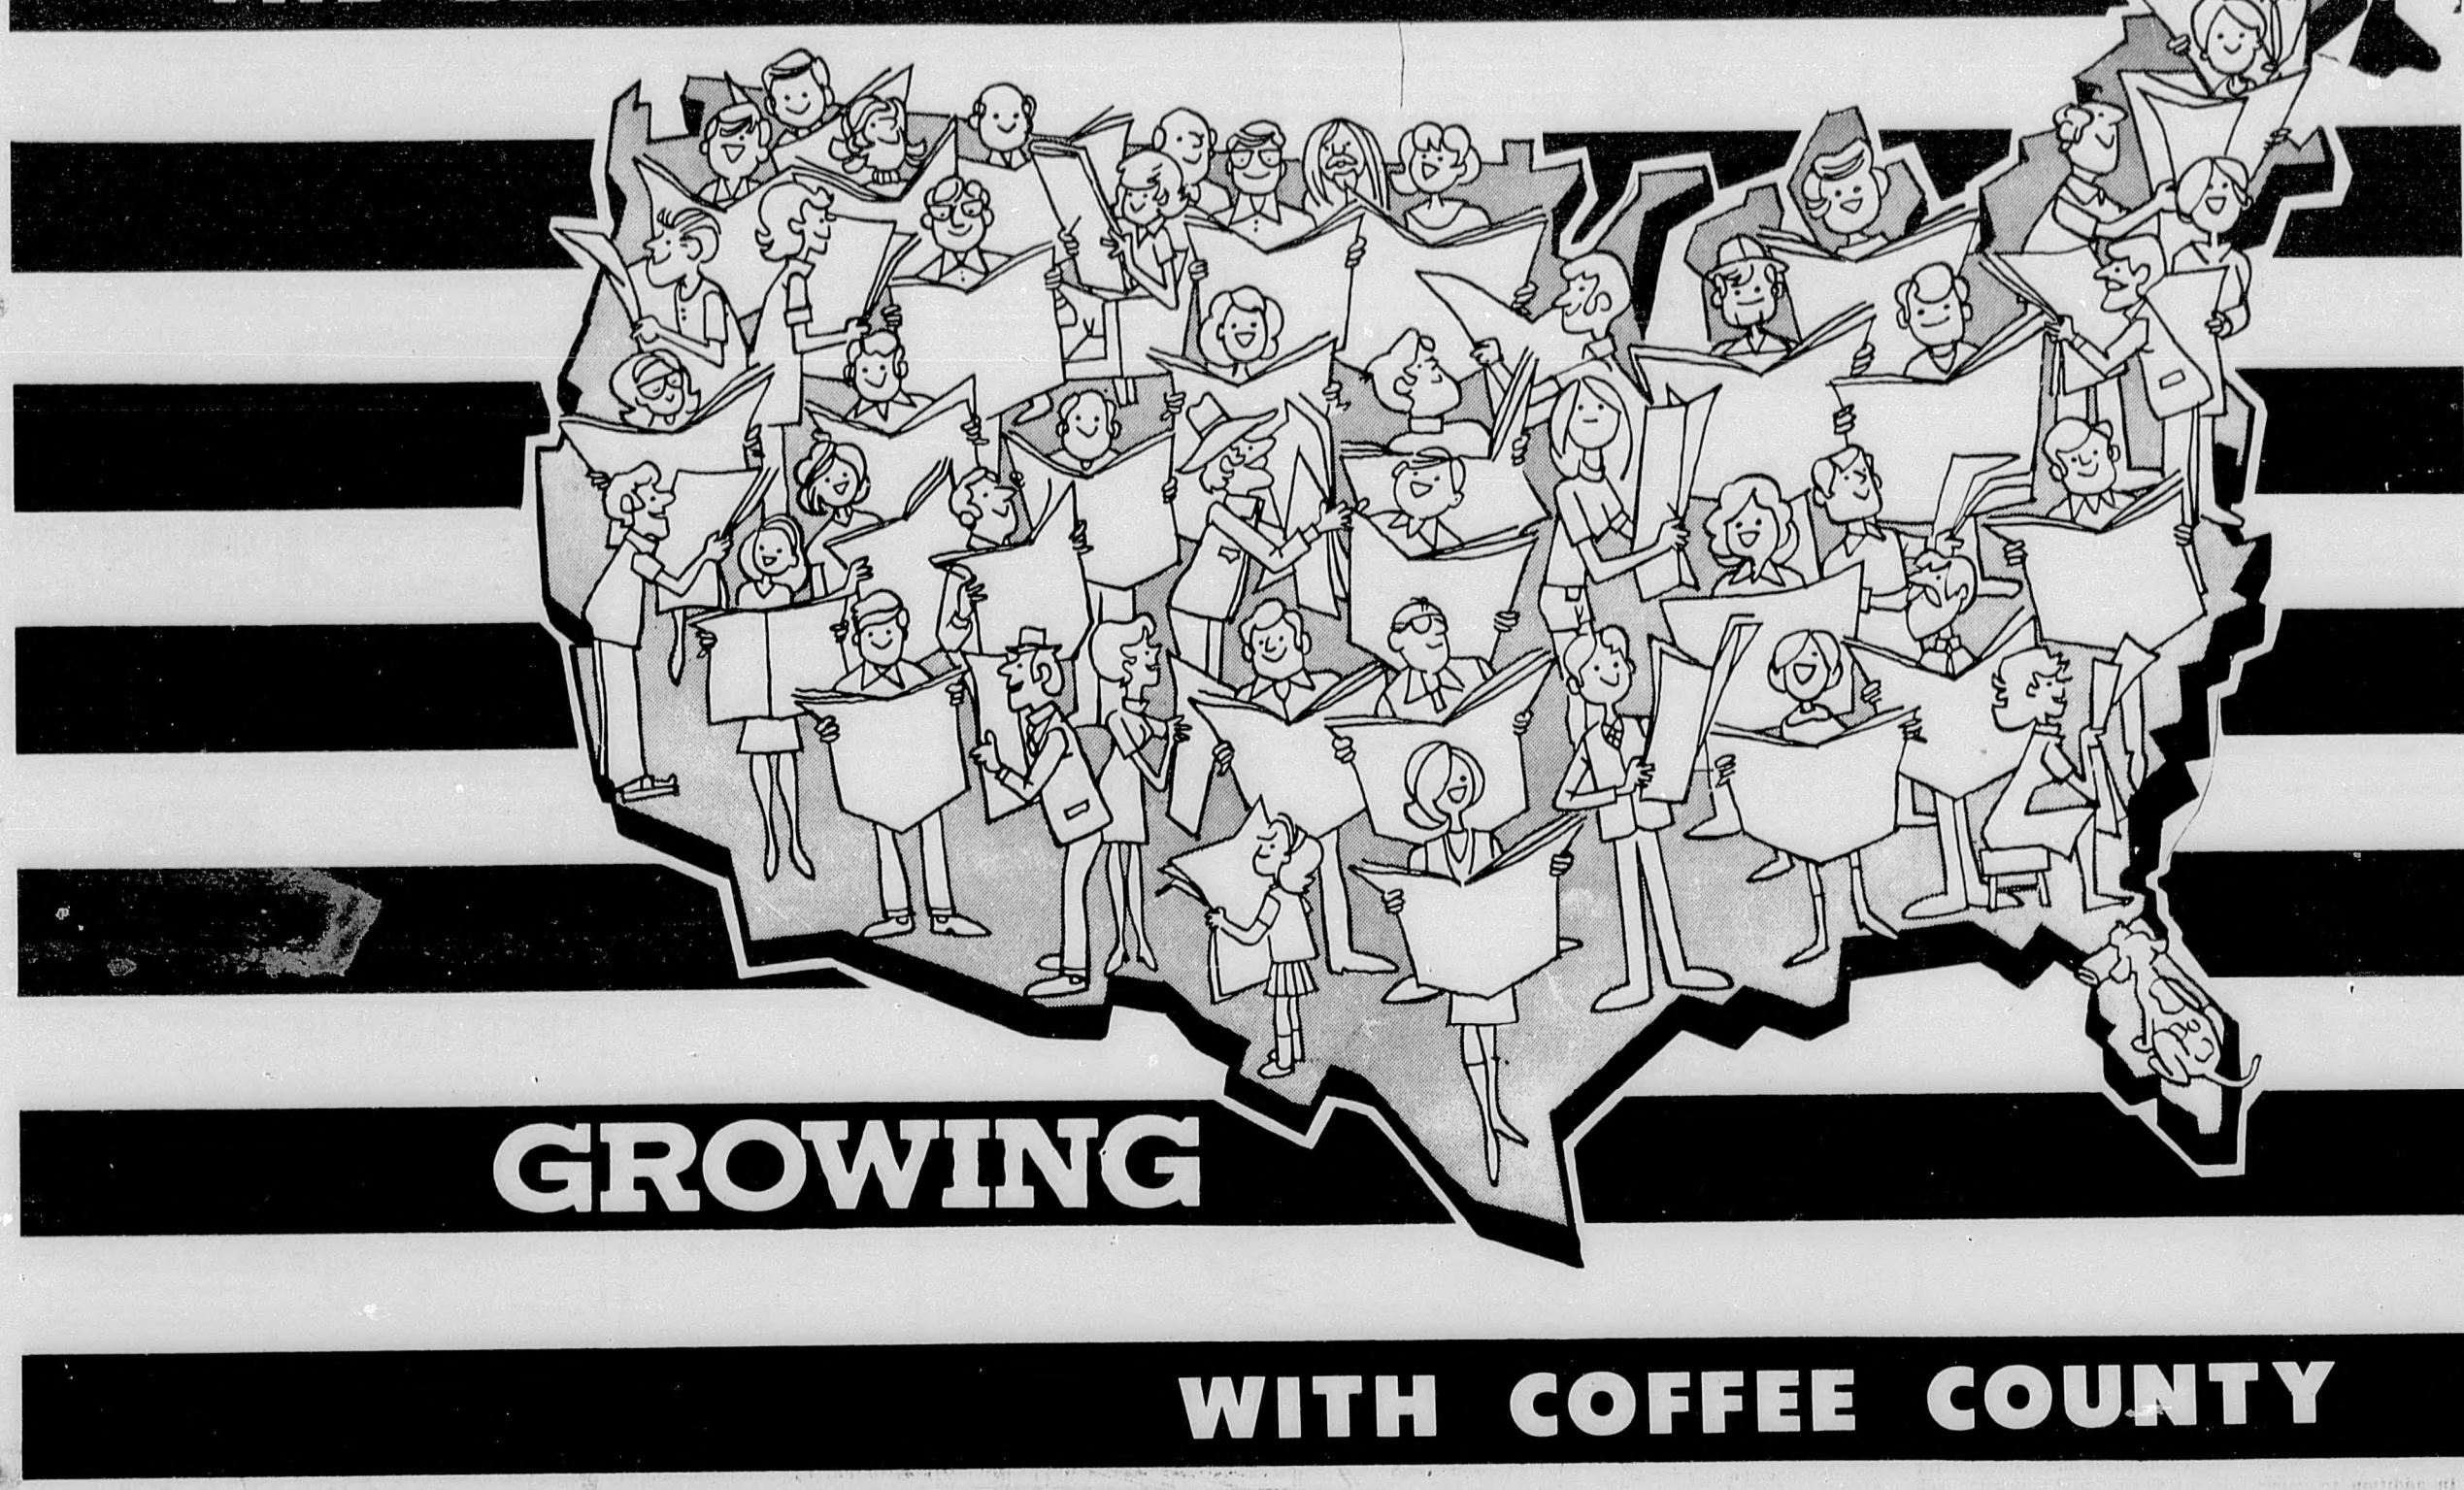

Regrettably, Alabama usually ranks second or third among all the States in tuberculosis reported in relation to every 100,000 people. Of all the counties in the United States which have a principal city with a population between 100,000 and 250,000 the rate of new active cases last year ranked Mobile first and Montgomery second. And all of cities of 250,000 population or more the tuberculosis case rate of Birmingham was exceeded only by Baltimore, Maryland, and El Paso, Texas. The Birmingham rate exceeded that of such cities as Newark, New Jersey, Chicago, and Detroit, and was almost twice the rate of Atlanta.

Bill Baxley Issues

Warning To Alabamians

Attorney General Bill Baxley issued a stern warning to all residents of Alabama to beware of a new endless chain scheme called "Sea Smooth".

Baxley stated that their operations were patterned after Glen Turner's dare to be great and that the sale of their product a sewing machine, was secondary to the $1,000.00 participation fee required.

Baxley further stated that his office had received many complaints on the activities of this corporation and they are under investigation for possible violation of state laws.

Consultant, National Dairy Council

We are, next to water, mostly protein. In fact, on a dry weight basis, you are about half protein. A third of your protein is in muscle. About a fifth in bone and cartilage. The rest is distributed in other tissues and body fluids. Normally, only bile and urine do not contain protein.

Proteins should not be utilized by the body for energy. They can be, if not enough starches, sugars and fat are present. In turn, this can mean you don't have enough protein for the body's handling of wear and tear.

So nutritionists recommend a balanced diet from a wide variety of foods to insure that you get enough protein along with carbohydrates and fats, and sufficient vitamins and minerals. Proteins are composed of amino acids. Proteins from animal foods such as meat, milk, eggs are similar in amino acid composition to human tissues. Thus these foods supply the kinds and proportions of amino acids your body needs. Because of this, animal proteins are rated biologically as having high nutritive value. Proteins in fruits, vegetables, grains, and nuts do not supply as good an assortment of amino acids, but some—like those in soybeans—are almost as good.

Combining Proteins

Not all of your protein must come from the so-called animal foods. That is the source of the most complete protein, but breads and cereals, fruits and vegetables also offer useful protein—particularly when such protein is combined with the animal foods. The idea here is that plant foods offer cheaper protein and by combining it with animal protein the economies of feeding people makes more sense. This is why, even when you are thinking primarily of protein in the diet, we remind people that the four food group approach to good nutrition is so important. It is combining the meat group, the milk group, fruits and vegetables, and breads and cereals in your daily meals.

Journalism Program At ESJC Receives Praise

The new two-year Associate Degree program in Journalism scheduled to begin fall quarter at Enterprise State Junior College received high praise this week from Dr. William E. Winter, Chairman, Department of Journalism, University of Alabama.

Dr. Winter told Bill Foreman, Public Relations Officer and Journalism teacher at ESJC, "We are pleased to hear that Enterprise State had adopted a two-year program in Journalism. Your program is one of the best in the state. It parallels our four year program at the University of Alabama and we will accept all credits earned on transfer.

The new curriculum provides four four-quarter-hours courses in Journalism. Mass communications, the introductory course in communications, will be taught fall quarter. News Writing will be offered during Winter quarter; and Photo-journalism and Advertising during spring quarter.

Tommy Gubrie, Dean of Admissions, said that students who have already preregistered for fall quarter and want to take Journalism may make the change at registration.

Students who take the four journalism courses and the 76 quarter hours of general education required will qualify for an Associate in Arts Degree in Journalism.

Winters said that journalism is a growing field and that more students will be seeking journalism degrees in the junior colleges. He commented ESJC for required writing and on-the-job experience in all four journalism courses. He said, "This will serve the transfer students as well as the students who plan to seek employment after two years."

Trade School Classes Begin

The fall term at MacArthur State Technical Institute will begin on September 5, 1972. New classes will begin in Barbering and Hairstyling. Hairstyling has recently been added to the barbering course to better prepare the barbering students to cut their customers' hair in the latest styles. New students will be admitted to the Barbering and Design Technology Course. Students in this course are trained in both architectural and mechanical drafting. Almost 100% of students completing this course have been placed on jobs in the surrounding area and there is an increasing demand for draftsmen each year.

New classes will also begin in Business Education and Data Processing. Recent surveys show that job opportunities in these areas are increasing every year. Students who enroll in these departments may be trained as clerk typists, file clerks, junior accountants, secretaries, key punch operators, and computer programmers.

New classes will also begin in Welding and Trowel Trades. Job opportunities in these two courses are excellent. Students will be admitted to Air Conditioning and Refrigeration, Auto Body Repair, Auto Mechanics, Diesel and Heavy Equipment Mechanics, Electronics Technology, Industrial Electricity, Practical Nursing, Radio and T. V. Repair, and Upholstery from waiting lists.

The Cosmetology Department will begin its new class on January 2, 1973. Applications for admission to these classes may be made at any time. Names will be placed on waiting lists and students admitted as vacancies occur.

Financial Assistance is available to eligible students who need assistance to attend school. Applications for assistance may be made at the school business office.

For the first time in the school's history, an effort will be made to offer night classes in all the departments at MacArthur Tech. An Organizational Meeting for night classes is scheduled for Tuesday evening, September 12 at 7:00 p.m. in the school cafeteria. MacArthur Tech is accredited by the Alabama State Department of Education.

Monday Is Holiday For Some Officers

Monday, September 4th, is Labor Day and an official holiday with all government agencies, including the Elba Courthouse, city hall and the local post office.

Postmaster Robert Cooper announced that mail in the post office box sections should be in the boxes by 9:15 a.m. but no rural or city carriers will deliver mail. The usual holiday receipts and dispatches of mail will be observed, according to Cooper.

The County Courthouse will be closed all day Monday but will be open for business on Tuesday morning at 8 a.m. The same holds true for the Elba City Hall.

The local merchants have mixed reactions to the official holiday. Some will be closed and others will remain open.

Sharpless Is Improved

A man who has grown up to be no more than 166 pounds would obviously be limited in the number of positions he might play on a major college football team. Johnny Sharpless, whose bulk is spread across 6-1 frame, has probably run the gamut of available spots for the University of Alabama.

Johnny is now playing split end for the Crimson Tide, following stints at defensive half-back and quarterback over the past three years. And he's doing well at it, wearing one of those practice jerseys reserved for first team offensive performers.

Captain Paul Bryant said that Johnny, a junior from Elba, "has improved greatly with the payoff since last spring. He's really made some great catches," said the coach. Bryant has always emphasized that one of the most important ingredients in a winning program is to have men who become winners between the end of spring training and the beginning of fall work. Thus, Bryant is alert to notice those showing improvement.

Sharpless grew up wanting to play football for Alabama. Elba had sent his second cousin, Martin Dyess, to Tuscaloosa and Johnny has fond memories of listening to the radio as Dyess and Alabama began building back.

As an All-State quarterback at Elba High School, Sharpless earned a scholarship to Bama and had visions of following in the footsteps of his later hero, Joe Namath. But there was a catch. "I couldn't believe it," he remembers. "I got up here thinking I was going to be the quarterback and there were 10 others who had been high school quarterbacks on that freshman team."

Sharpless admits that everyone wants to be the quarterback, especially if they've had that spot, but says that he no longer has any qualms about trying another position. In fact, he's quite fond of his latest home.

"I'm mostly interested in playing and it's not important where he says. I really like split end, though. I've got a lot to learn about running routes and blocking on the corners, but I'm interested in learning it," he added.

Johnny knows that he's not going to annihilate any defensive backs, even though cornermen and safeties generally run small too. "The main thing that I have to do on a downfield block is get position," he said. "It's nice to knock them down and I think I can, but you don't have to get the man on the ground every time to accomplish your mission," he said. There's some comfort for all little blockers though in Bubba Sawyer's success last year against Mississippi State. Nine times Bubba was called on to block a defensive back and nine times he succeeded, including putting his man on the ground seven of those times. "I don't think that split end is going to be all blocking at Alabama this year,

Lola Parker Honored On Her Retirement

On July 4, 1972, Lola Parker worked her last shift of nursing before retiring, and was honored with a party given by the employees. Again on August 17, 1972, she was honored with a luncheon in the hospital dining room, attended by Mr. Benton and the hospital-nursing home supervisors. At that time she was presented a plaque and a letter of commendation for her years of service with Elba General Hospital. On behalf of the Hospital-Nursing Home board and the staff of both facilities, Mr. Benton presented the plaque and letter, expressing appreciation for her long and untiring service in the field of nursing care and wishing for her many years of happy retirement.

Lola stated that she appreciated the kind gesture and thoughtfulness of everyone. She said that she misses her work and caring for patients, but added that she is enjoying her leisure.

She began her work at Elba General Hospital on August 12, 1965, at the time the hospital opened and completed almost nine years before retiring. She is the first employee to reach retirement.
